Wildlife Photographer

About Me

Sarah Wilson is a contemporary photographer who focuses on wildlife and natural landscapes. She is most interested in capturing the evolving qualities of light throughout the changing seasons and the stillness of the human free panoramas; but most of all, Sarah strives to capture the essential connection between her and the animal. Her work is driven by a lifelong passion of a variety of animals and creatures in natural environments, and she rarely uses technology to enhance or alter her photographs, preferring instead to realise the closeness using a telephoto lens.
